

UNPREDICTED ADDED TASK

Story points are already estimated and you have already talked with your team regarding the tasks you should work on. Deadline is approaching and you think that you will make it in time with the pace you're going (working at least 50hrs/week). But a day before the deadline, you encounter a task that requires RnD and you have no idea how long this RnD will take you.

- How will you communicate this with your team?

I will say that I will prioritize first the tasks the supervisor has given for the deadline and will add the new task if prioritized tasks are finished.

- After the RnD, you found out it will take at least another day to finish the task. How will you say it to your team and your supervisor?

I would say that if it is important to prioritize this instead then I will carry on with this task and finish it before the deadline.

- If you are a team leader, what would be your response to this kind of situation?

I will just stick to what the boss has prioritized as to do to avoid confusion.

- What do you think is the possible solution to make it to your deadline?

The possible solution to make it to the deadline is to just prioritize what was asked to finish before the deadline.